Jamberoo pub...here we come!

Usual meeting place for drives down the coast.....Uncle Leo's and all were present and accounted for at the allotted time.

20 eager drivers waited for the starting gun which was fired at 10:40 and the collected brethren, champing at the bit, took off.

It was actually an easy but longish drive...actually a 222km round trip for Lyne and I...following the Hume highway M31 to Picton Road at Wilton thence to Illawarra Road at Albion Park. A delightful drive then ensued via the Illawarra Highway at Albion Park...this humble scribe cannot describe the beautiful lush, green countryside on the way to Jamberoo!

The Jamberoo Pub is a unique country pub with both motel and pub style accommodation available. It was built in 1857 and is renowned for its support of local community and sporting groups, live music and its welcoming nature. The walls and ceiling are lined with memorabilia collected over many years. Johnny Warren was heavily featured and seeing that the owners were Warrens I was wondering if there was a family connection!

Destination reached.

After this lengthy drive all participants were obviously keen to order and food and drink were quickly delivered to the waiting patrons....judging by the noise of the conversations and the clink of cutlery the offerings obviously were favourably received!

Janet cutting her birthday cake.

Of particular note today was Janet Devine's 21st birthday and she was presented with a tasty birthday cake which was shared amongst our members...happy birthday Janet!

All good things unfortunately must come to pass and so it was that our members slowly made their way home!
