“Senior’s Week”

Howdie Friends, another great day for an outing to a local haunt (pardon the pun). It was a little warm and humid but the cars and people made one forget. It was great to see all the cars on show as this was the main reason we were there, from Paul’s yellow beast to Allana’s beautifully restored MG, also a mention needs to go out to Mark for half of his garage being there, imagine all the space once they were all out showing themselves off. Thanks Mark you’re a champion bloke.

Prince Henry Hospital was established in 1881 as NSW’s first hospital for infectious diseases. It closed in 2003. The Prince Henry Hospital Nursing and Medical Museum maintain an extensive collection of documents, artefacts and memorabilia related to Prince Henry Hospital, the hundreds of doctors, nurses, patients and support staff associated with it and the general history of medicine in NSW.

Established in 1881 by the NSW Government, the Coast Hospital at Little Bay was the first public hospital in Sydney. Renamed Prince Henry Hospital in 1934 to mark the visit of Prince Henry, Duke of Gloucester, it became a teaching hospital, training both doctors and nurses, and a centre for research of infectious diseases. In 1988 the NSW government made the decision to consolidate Prince Henry and Prince of Wales Hospitals into a single campus. The last wards closed in 2003. The area has been redeveloped into a residential precinct.

The Museum is open Sundays (10 am – 3 pm) and Tuesdays (10 am – 2 pm). Guided tours are available.
